Pastor's Corner - THEOLOGY OF THE BODY (11)

THE PHRASE “THEOLOGY OF THE BODY” strikes many people as an oxymoron. How could our bodies – so carnal, so earthy, so mortal – be a “study of God”? “The fact that theology also includes the body should not astonish or surprise anyone who is conscious of the mystery and reality of the Incarnation,” John Paul II insisted. “Through the fact that the Word of God became flesh, the body entered theology ... through the main door.” (TOB 23:4). God has revealed his mystery through the Word made flesh – theology of the body. This phrase is not only the title of the first major teaching project of “John Paul the Great,” it represents the very logic of Christianity.

John Paul II's theology of the body is most often cast as an extended catechesis on marriage and sexual love. It certainly is that, but it is also much more. Through the mystery of the incarnate person and the biblical analogy of spousal love, John Paul II's catechesis illumines the entirety of God's plan for human life from origin to eschaton with a splendid supernatural light. It's not only a response to the sexual revolution, it's a response to the Enlightenment. It's a response to modern rationalism, Cartesian dualism, super-spiritualism, and all the disembodied anthropologies infecting the modern world. In short, the theology of the body is one of the Catholic Church's most critical efforts in modern times to help the world become more “conscious of the mystery and the reality of the Incarnation” – and through that to become more conscious of the very purpose and meaning of human life.

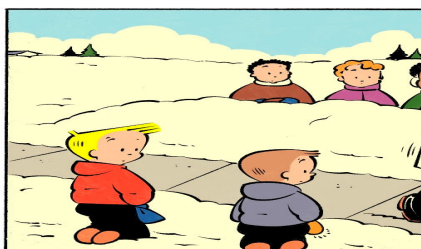

(The above paragraphs are written by Christopher West in his Preface to Michael Waldstein's English translation of John Paul II's catechesis called, Man and Woman He Created Them – A theology of the Body, published by Pauline Books and Ministry). More to Come.

Blessed are you when they insult you and persecute you and utter every kind of evil against you falsely because of Me. Rejoice and be glad, for your reward will be great in Heaven." Noche de alabanza les invita a que aparten la fecha del próximo retiro en junio 16-17-y 18 todo para honrar y dar gloria a Dios

Rincón del Párroco—Teología del Cuerpo (11)

LA FRASE “TEOLOGÍA DEL CUERPO” les parece a muchas personas un oxímoron. ¿Cómo podrían nuestros cuerpos, tan carnales, tan terrenales, tan mortales, ser un “estudio de Dios”? “El hecho de que la teología incluya también el cuerpo no debe asombrar ni sorprender a nadie que sea consciente del misterio y de la realidad de la Encarnación”, insistió Juan Pablo II. “Por el hecho de que la Palabra de Dios se hizo carne, el cuerpo entró en la teología... por la puerta principal”. (TOB 23:4). Dios ha revelado su misterio a través del Verbo hecho carne: la teología del cuerpo. Esta frase no es solo el título del primer gran proyecto de enseñanza de “Juan Pablo el Grande”, sino que representa la lógica misma del cristianismo.

La teología del cuerpo de Juan Pablo II suele presentarse como una catequesis extendida sobre el matrimonio y el amor sexual. Sin duda es eso, pero también es mucho más. A través del misterio de la persona encarnada y de la analogía bíblica del amor sponsal, la catequesis de Juan Pablo II ilumina con una espléndida luz sobrenatural la totalidad del proyecto de Dios sobre la vida humana, desde el origen hasta el final. No es solo una respuesta a la revolución sexual, es una respuesta a la Ilustración. Es una respuesta al racionalismo moderno, el dualismo cartesiano, el súper espiritualismo y todas las antropologías incorporadas que infectan el mundo moderno. En resumen, la teología del cuerpo es uno de los esfuerzos más críticos de la Iglesia Católica en los tiempos modernos para ayudar al mundo a ser más “consciente del misterio, la realidad de la Encarnación” y a través de eso, a ser más consciente del propósito mismo y el significado de la vida humana.

(Los párrafos anteriores fueron escritos por Christopher West en su prefacio a la traducción al inglés de Michael Waldstein's de la catequesis de Juan Pablo II llamada Man and Woman He Created Them – theology of the Body, publicada por Pauline Books and Ministry). Más por venir.
